

FREE Engaging and Involving LGBT+ communities Masterclass

Tuesday 13 June 2017 10am – 3pm (Registration 9.30am. Lunch provided)

Venue: The Ingenuity Centre, University Of Nottingham, Triumph Road, Nottingham, NG7 2TU

A masterclass for health, social care, research and academic staff wanting to improve involvement, engagement and service access for LGBT+ communities.

Using up to date information and the latest research, it will cover key issues facing LGBT+ people when accessing health and social care services.

Learning outcomes:

- Understanding the individual populations under the LGBT+ umbrella
- Challenging myths, assumptions and unconscious bias
- Exploring key access issues and how to develop more inclusive working practice
- Understanding of the impact of other differences alongside being LGBT+ – e.g. age, race, disability
- Understanding minority stress and the health impacts of being LGBT+
- Best practice guidelines and advice on language and legal issues

Delivered by Sam Hope an experienced BACP trauma therapist and trainer, this will be an eye-opening, interesting, lively, interactive session. It will explore a cross-cultural understanding of gender and sexuality and aims to help delegates develop robust cultural competence and awareness of a complex spectrum of LGBT+ issues. There will be Top Tips to takeaway on the day.

Sam has many years' experience as an LGBT+ community organiser, activist and an equality and diversity trainer.

Place are limited so to book your place...

Contact: Katie Swinburn, Patient and Public Involvement Officer, East Midlands AHSN Phone: 0115 74 84216 Email: katie.swinburn@nottingham.ac.uk